REPUDIATION OF TELEGRAM BY COOLIDGE

Miller Insists Message About Muscle Shoals is Correct

New York, April 29.—J. W. Miller, whose telegram to the Dearborn Independent quoting President Coolidge as saying he would try to deliver Muscle Shoals to Henry Ford has been repudiated by the President, states that his telegram was correct.

Mr. Miller, who said he was employed by the Ford interests to observe the progress of Ford's presidential campaign, insisted he had transmitted Mr. Coolidge's words accurately.

Mr. Miller denied statements made by Ford representatives in Detroit last night that he was not on Ford's payroll. He declared he had been engaged in December, 1922 by E. G. Liebold, general manager of the Dearborn Independent as an "observer" of things political.

He said he resigned Jan. 1 and had since instituted suit for back salary and expenses.

He asserted he had scores of telegrams and confidential letters written by him to Ford and Liebold and correspondence from Liebold.

"I was not employed to look after the Muscle Shoals project and did no lobbying," Mr. Miller said. "My telegram read before the Washington committee stands. So far as I know there was no deal between the President and Mr. Ford regarding Muscle Shoals or politics."

Pinchot Knocks Offer Governor Pinchot of Pennsylvania told the senate agriculture committee today that Henry Ford's bid for Muscle Shoals if accepted would "hamstring the south."

Declaring the Shoals were the key to the power situation in the south-east, Governor Pinchot said the Ford company did not guarantee anything except to build up a great industrial center.

"In my opinion," he said, "Muscle Shoals should be handled not from a power standpoint, but from a social viewpoint. It seems to me the question is not so much the individual but the procedure to be followed. We should know exactly what we want to accomplish."

"I see no reason in the world why so careless a form of contract should be accepted as the Ford bid. There is no penalty for forfeiture and no guarantee of any sort."

"As a power proposition the Ford offer is absolutely contrary to the Roosevelt policy as set forth in the water power act," Governor Pinchot said.

Ford, he said, could use all the power for himself and pay nothing for it. Nitrate plant No. 2, he contended, should be kept for the manufacture of nitrates in time of war and for cheap fertilizer in peace times.

The governor told the committee he saw no reason for haste in the matter. "The Ford offer does not do justice to the farmers on the question of fertility," he said. "And the nitrate part of the bid is window dressing."

"Distribution of power should be made over the widest practical area at the lowest practical price to the consumer."

JOY RIDER GIVEN SIX MONTHS TERM SYCAMORE JAIL

Violation of Mann Act May Be Charged Against Bolt.

Arthur Bolt, Davenport, Ia., married and father of two children, was fined $500 and sentenced to serve six months in the DeKalb county jail at Sycamore yesterday on a charge of transporting liquor.

His companion, Pearl Clifford, age 20, of Davenport, lies in a Rochelle hospital in a semi-conscious condition, following the wreck of their car near Malta Thursday night.

Charges of violating the Mann act and of assault with a deadly weapon may be placed against Bolt when Miss Clifford recovers sufficiently to tell what happened.

"He struck me with something," she tells the nurses, and then in the next breath she denies it.

The girl is suffering from concussion of the brain, sustained either when their car went into the ditch or by being struck over the head.

Left Davenport Together. Bolt admitted the charge of transporting liquor, in DeKalb county court Monday morning and Judge William Pond fined him $500 and costs and sentenced him to six months in the county jail.

Sheriff Edwin E. Crawford said today, "Charges of violating the Mann act hinge on what the girl tells us. Assault with a deadly weapon may be another charge placed against Bolt if the girl says he struck her. Bolt claims he picked the girl up in a roadhouse at Davenport and they went for a joyride, intending to spend the night in Chicago."

Until Miss Clifford can tell her part of the story, no further action will be taken.

EXTRA! OLD TIMES RECALLED; HORSE THIEF ABROAD HERE

Radio Messages Tell of Theft of Horse North of City.

Dixon radio fans this morning heard a horse thief being pursued through eastern Iowa, through the air waves, the broadcasting being done from the WOC station at Davenport. At the instigation of the local police, Edwin Shipman, aged 16, wanted for the theft of a horse and buggy belonging to Walter Hummel, farmer residing north of Woonung, is the man being sought.

Mr. Hummel came to Dixon this morning and reported the loss of his best driving horse and a buggy. Shipman took the horse and buggy Sunday morning, stating that he was going to drive to Polo to visit his father. When he did not return, an investigation was begun, and it was learned that the horse and buggy had crossed the high bridge at Fulton Sunday evening about 5:30, going west. Monday night, Mr. Hummel learned that the outfit left Clinton headed west along the Lincoln Highway going toward DeWitt.

Police at DeWitt were furnished with a description of the boy, the horse and buggy and are awaiting his arrival there. The police telephoned descriptions to the WOC station this morning from where they were broadcasted at 11:30. Mr. Hummel went from here to Polo to swear out a warrant against the young man.

Sixty Chickens Taken from Engle Farm Near Country Club in Night

Chickens thieves raided the poultry house on the George Engle farm, about a quarter of a mile north of the Dixon Country Club during the night and took practically every fowl on the place, according to a report made to Sheriff E. C. Risley early this morning. About 60 black Minorca chickens were taken, the thieves overlooking four hens that were setting in an adjacent building.

The theft was discovered this morning when members of the family went to the poultry house and discovered large pools of blood in the building which indicated that the chickens had been killed and bled as they were taken from the flocks. Tracks led across a field, where fence wires had been cut to permit the carrying of the chickens to a waiting automobile. It is presumed that three or four men were engaged in the theft of the flock and that after killing the chickens they were placed in sacks and carried across the field to the waiting car.

Little Interest in Ohio Primary Today

By Associated Press Leased Wire Columbus, O., April 29.—Ohio voters went to the polls today to select delegates to the national conventions of the two major political parties and to register their preference as to candidates to be named by the convention. Little interest was being shown.

Most interesting feature of today's election is the contest of former Attorney General H. M. Daugherty, a Coolidge candidate for delegate-at-large.

Efforts of Johnson supporters have centered on attacks of the former attorney general.

The Republicans will choose 51 delegates and the democrats 5.

LIVING DEATH! GLORIA SWANSON EATS, SLEEPS AND TALKS—YET RUMOR STILL INSISTS SHE'S DEAD AND BURIED

THE ONE AND THE SAME GLORIA SWANSON—LEFT—PHOTOGRAPHED TWO YEARS AGO; RIGHT—PHOTOGRAPHED THIS WEEK BY NEA STAFF PHOTOGRAPHER.

BY MAURICE HENLE, NEA Service Staff Writer.

New York—Gloria Swanson has been killed more times than any other person. She has committed suicide, drowned, died from an operation, exploded from heart trouble, been choked to death, run over by an auto truck, and killed by a fall from a horse.

In spite of all this, her pulse today is normal, her complexion perfect, and her feet and wit nimble. She's the happiest "dead" person alive, with two beautiful children, a healthy income, a beautiful apartment and a limousine.

Oh death, where is thy sting?

For the past year the rumor of the "death" of Miss Swanson filtered into newspaper offices, into the motion picture offices, and even into the ears of Gloria herself. Repeated denials have accomplished nothing. At first it was humorous; then it grew serious. It became the most persistent rumor of its kind ever to gain circulation.

Believes It a Plot.

It grew so serious recently that the company which employs the star has assigned trained investigators to trace it to its source. Miss Swanson herself believes it is a deliberate plot to destroy her as a movie actress.

I first saw Miss Swanson about two years ago. Since then I have seen her many times, and while she was making "The Humming Bird," some months ago in the Long Island studios, I spent considerable time there. I went to see her again today to satisfy myself that she still lives.

And I am convinced that the Gloria Swanson of today is the genuine Gloria Swanson, the only Gloria Swanson who ever lived.

If a theory which the star has is correct, the world now has to consider a strange tale, the like of which cannot be found outside a Maupassant story.

Some time ago when Miss Swanson was living in Hollywood, she quarreled with a certain individual. This person she will not name. At that time, according to the star, the person solemnly raised an arm and declared:

"Miss Swanson, did you ever stop to consider the power of propaganda? Did you ever realize that one person can destroy a person or make her? That against propaganda human beings are powerless?"

That was all this person said. Gradually the rumors of her supposed death spread. They were fed by remarks of people who thought they noticed a changed Gloria Swanson in some of her later pictures, notably "The Humming Bird." People whispered the woman acting under the name of Gloria Swanson wasn't the real Gloria at all! She had died! They were putting a "double" in her place to protect an investment!

People were found to "knew" Gloria had died. They had talked with a friend of a friend who knew a barber who shaved a scene-shifter who knew Gloria had died! Or they had known a person whose cousin lived five blocks from the studio who saw them carrying the coffin away! Or they had heard her insurance policy had been altered, changing the beneficiary!

Hard Proving She's Alive.

"The thing humorous at first," says Gloria, "now is becoming maddening. What can I do? What can I say? How can I prove that I'm alive? People who have known me for years will swear to it. My physician will swear to it. I will swear to it. Isn't that enough?"

"Why do these rumors go on? I can't run down Fifth Avenue shouting 'I'm Gloria Swanson! I'm Gloria Swanson!'"

"I am convinced of one thing—that the thing started in Hollywood, and that it is a deliberate plot. The invisible fingers of propaganda are stretching out, coming closer and closer and I find myself almost powerless to fight. If I could see my enemy I could destroy it. But I can't see it. I can't see it."

As she talked to me little Gloria Somborn (Miss Swanson in real life is Mrs. Somborn) came in with a nurse and little two-year-old Joseph, an adopted son. The children ran to their mother, and little Gloria said just one word as she threw her chubby arms around the star's neck: "Mother!"

RESIGNATION GOV. MCCRAY EXPECTED; IS FOUND GUILTY

Indiana Executive is Convicted of Using Mails to Defraud.

BULLETIN.

By Associated Press Leased Wire Indianapolis, Ind., April 29.—Warren T. McCray, convicted yesterday in federal court of using the mails to defraud, today resigned as governor of Indiana.

The resignation becomes effective at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning. Emmett F. Branch, lieutenant governor, will automatically become governor.

McCray is to appear tomorrow in federal court to receive his sentence. It is expected he will receive a term in the Atlanta Federal Prison and will be taken there with other prisoners Thursday.

McCray will take no appeal from his conviction in federal court but will be ready to begin serving whatever sentence is given him by Judge Anderson.

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Indianapolis, Ind., April 29.—That Governor W. T. McCray, found guilty of using the mails in furtherance of a scheme to defraud in federal court yesterday, would resign was the general belief here today, although republicans and the Governor declined to comment.

The Governor spent last night in Marion county jail and was to remain in confinement there until Wednesday when he was to appear before Federal Judge Anderson to be sentenced.

Raymond C. Morgan, speaker of the House of Representatives, arrived here this morning to confer with Attorney general Lesh.

A series of conferences were held by Republican leaders when McCray's financial difficulties first became public and the opinion was expressed then that impeachment proceedings would be instituted if he was found guilty of the charges.

The attitude of the leaders however, is that no immediate action will be taken.

It is up to McCray or the legislature to act. C. A. Wall, chairman of the republican state committee, said last night. Mr. Morgan declined to make any statement.

It appeared unlikely early today that Governor McCray would ask for an appeal.

THIS CITY HUB OF ACTIVITIES ON STATE WORK

Summer Will See Much Road Improvement in This Vicinity

A fair sized "circus" was unloaded Monday afternoon and this morning at the Northwestern freight yards, which organization is headed by a woman, the H. Nicholson Construction company of Tama, Iowa. The "circus" today is moving east of the city to the Hoover farm on the Daysville road, where grading work is to be started at once on the Black Hawk Trail. Mrs. Nicholson, who owns and operates the construction company, will arrive in Dixon in a few days to make this city her headquarters for several weeks. Her daughter, Miss Helen Nicholson, is now in Dixon supervising the establishment of the camp and the beginning of operations.

The Nicholson firm have been engaged in highway construction for several years working in Iowa, Minnesota and Illinois. The Rocho Brothers Construction company of Freeport have sublet the grading contract for the Black Hawk Trail from Dixon to Oregon. Work will be started at the foot of the Daysville road in a few days, the work progressing toward Oregon. About 60 men accompanied the outfit to Dixon and others will be added as soon as the work is under way.

Portable kitchens, commissary, bunk houses and all conveniences for a big camp are carried. Tents will be used for the housing of several hundred horses and machinery and a big sleeping tent will also be staked out for employees who prefer sleeping out of doors.

Six Outfits at Work.

With the Nicholson company established, there will be four different contracting firms located on the Black Hawk Trail between this city and Oregon. Dixon will be a hub for these camps for several months on the north, south and east.

The Conway Construction company of Chicago has advance agents on the ground here now staking out a big camp three miles south of Dixon. A switch track is now being laid from the Northwestern cut off near the Chicago road, on route 2, for the storage of materials and headquarters for employees. This company expects to start work within the next two weeks, grading on the highway.

A culvert construction gang has already started work at the south end of the cement stretch between this city and Amboy, working toward Dixon. Grading work will be started from the city limits of Dixon and continue south to Amboy. The pouring of concrete in all probability, will start from the south end of the old cement stretch and come to Dixon.

Hold Out on Right of Way.

On this stretch of road on route 2 between Dixon and Amboy, it is reported that right of way has been secured from all but two land owners. T. Wilbur Leake and Peter Burhenn of this city, are said to have not arrived at terms with reference to the widening of the right of way which is necessary for the improvement. The present cement stretch of about three miles, will not be disturbed, another strip bringing it to the necessary width to be added.

The highways department maintenance force has completed the scarfing of the detour of route 26 and a very fine gravelled road is now open to traffic between this city and Polo. The detour leaves the main route of travel north of Dixon, passing over the Pine Creek road, a distance of six miles east to within about a half mile of Stratford, thence north into Polo. The detour route is less than a mile longer than the old road straight north out of Dixon into Polo and has been placed in fine condition.

Another detour over this route has been laid out from Polo to Forreston, leaving the east city limits of Polo and extending northerly to Forreston. The detour has been generously marked from Dixon to Forreston.

BODIES OF THIRTY-SIX MINERS FOUND; 75 STILL MISSING

Little Hope of Finding Any of Remaining Men Alive Entertained.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Wheeling, W. Va., April 29.—With 36 bodies recovered from the Benwood mine of the Wheeling Steel Corporation, rescue workers at 10 o'clock today were working from two entries in an effort to reach 75 other men believed to have been entombed by an explosion yesterday. They had little hope of finding the men alive. Nineteen of the bodies were burned beyond recognition.

Rescue workers in the Brown's run entry, where most of the bodies were found, and those in the Benwood entry are less than 3000 feet apart and the two groups will likely have the rock fall cleared sufficiently to join by noon Wednesday, it was declared.

J. W. Carpenter of the Benwood plant of the Wheeling Steel Corporation, this morning announced that 111 men were in the corporation's mine at the time of the explosion.

Officials of the corporation were unable to fix a cause for the disaster and I. M. Scott, president of the corporation, said there had been no evidence of gas until two months ago when an small explosion occurred.

By 8 o'clock this morning the number of bodies discovered had mounted to 36, leaving 81 miners still unaccounted for. As additional bodies were found, they were placed to one side while searchers continued to explore other drifts in an effort to determine if any miners were still living. As search progressed, hope of finding any of the men alive was practically abandoned.

Harry Fisher returned home last evening from Cadillac, Mich., driving out a special new truck from the factory, which is to be added to the fleet owned by Charles Duis, used in road construction work. The truck is the latest model manufactured for this class of work, being equipped with an under-body hydraulic hoist and having a capacity of three tons.

PLANTING TIME—
Some folks put their trust in signs, When plantin' spuds cucumber vines, An' other kinds o' garden truck; They'll tell you that the moon ain't right, An' you must wait till dark or light, Which ever 'tis, if you'd have luck.

An' one will say, "The moon is dry, The way she's hangin' in the sky, An' crops are apt to burn," they'll fret.

But someone else, as like as not, Will say, "The seeds are goin' to rot," An' tell you that same moon is wet.

But I don't mind their talk at all, For when I hear the robins call, An' geese a-honkin' in the sky, When every breeze smells fresh an' sweet, An' ground breaks mellow under feet, I reckon plantin' time is nigh.

—Myrtle Blessing.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS—
Green Vegetables.
Don't cook green vegetables too long as it darkens them and makes the flavor too strong.

Keep in Cool Place.
Always keep your meat drippings and fats in a cool, dry place.

Keep Dust Away.
Keep your beds out of corners or alcoves if possible so they may be kept free from dust. Dust invites vermin.

Washing Solution.
Heat a pound of soap in four gallons of water over a low fire, then add a pound of soda. This will make an excellent solution for soaking clothes and for washing when the water is very hard.

Watch Lights.
Watch the lighting in your kitchen and have light arranged where you need them most. A light that flickers or dazzles produces eyestrain and headache.

Leftovers.
Left-over parsley or lettuce should be washed and then stored in clean cloths or glass jars without water.

Removing Stains.
You can remove stains from indelible pencils by greasing the spot with hard and rubbing well, then washing with soap and warm water.

Peas and Beans.
Dried beans and peas should be soaked in cold water for at least eight hours, then rinsed in fresh water and put on to cook in cold. Then they should simmer gently until they are tender.

DROVE TO FULTON SUNDAY.
Misses Olive Kerz and Anna Wood drove to Fulton Sunday, accompanying Miss Ruth Kerz to that city where she teaches in the public school. The girls report the large hill which approaches just before the limits of the city of Fulton, as covered with the first wild flowers, anemones, violets, "shooting stars," etc. Many tourists had parked their cars to pick some of the flowers, which brings to mind an editorial in the Telegraph recently, about "the best and loveliest wild flowers being those left on the mother plant, to endow the scene about them with a delicate, artistic beauty. The wildflowers, plucked, wither quicker than any other flower, at the touch of the hand, any child will tell you this. Let us leave them in their natural environment to bloom in woodland happiness."

ENTERTAINED OVER THE WEEK-END.
Mr. and Mrs. Roy C. Mackley of Rockford, entertained over the week-end the latter sisters, the Misses Goldie and Grace Gignous of Dixon.

One-half grapefruit with one dessertspoon sugar, one shredded wheat biscuit, 1 hard boiled egg in 1/2 cup white sauce on toast, 1 cup cream of tomato soup with 1 tablespoon whipped cream, 1/2 cup potato salad, two slices cold boiled ham, 1/2 pound fillet of haddock with 2 tablespoons lemon butter, 3 new potatoes in parsley sauce, 10 stalks fresh asparagus with 2 tablespoons drawn butter, 12 slices cucumber on 1/2 ounces shredded lettuce with 2 tablespoons French dressing, one-sixteenth lemon meringue pie, 1 chocolate éclair, 2 tablespoons whole wheat croutons, 2 thin slices rye bread, 2 slices graham bread, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 nut roll, 1 cup cocoa, 1/4 cup cream, 1 banana, 1 cup whole milk.

Total calories, 3803. Protein, 489; fat, 1701; carbohydrate, 1613. Iron, .0188 gram.

If more sugar is wanted for the grapefruit and shredded wheat biscuit, it should, of course be used. These menus and calculations are for the average taste and form a working basis for you to reckon your own individual meals. No second helpings are provided and the amounts mentioned are as near the ordinary family serving as tablespoons and cups can be gauged.

The whipped cream used for all cream soups is seasoned lightly with salt and sometimes a few gratings of a spice that combines with a certain vegetable. A dash of paprika usually tops the cream.

The banana is suggested for the shredded wheat.

The nut roll and cup of cocoa can be served as the mid-morning lunch or afternoon tea.

PERIOD FURNITURE Mission

The latest period type of furniture, which may be identified from all others, is the mission type, that suggested by work found in the old Spanish missions of the southwest. Straight, austere lines characterize it almost entirely. It looks heavy and clumsy, although efforts have been made to lighten it. Furned oak is used principally. Similar work in England, Austria and Germany go under the names of New Art Craftsman and Arts and Crafts.

How Soldier Dispersed Attacks

"For two years my stomach trouble was very bad, my doctor had to inject morphine on several occasions when I was stricken with these attacks. Since taking 4 bottles of Mayr's Wonderful Remedy I have been entirely well and am serving in the artillery, having been pronounced in perfect health by government physicians." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. At all druggists.—Adv.

Dangerous Varicose Veins Can Be Reduced

Never mind what people say, if you have varicose or swollen veins and want to reduce them to normal, go to any live druggist and ask for an original two-ounce bottle of Emerald Oil (full strength). If he hasn't it, he can get it.

Apply it to the enlarged veins as directed and improvement will be noticed in a few days. Continue its use until veins return to normal size. It is guaranteed to reduce swollen veins or money back, and also to reduce swollen glands, goitre and wens.—Adv.

Pleasant Day With Mrs. Harry Carson

The members of the South Dixon Community Club and a few friends spent a pleasant day at the home of Mrs. Harry Carson on the Peoria Road at their last meeting. All were glad to be able to meet with her and to see Hazel convalescing so rapidly after her recent operation. The day was spent in sewing and mending. A demonstration of the Vacuumette was given before the picnic dinner.

In the afternoon a short business meeting was held. Mrs. Martha Shipert, a guest, gave two delightful readings and Little Vivian Wolfrum spoke two short pieces.

Mrs. Carson, who had been away from home a month because of sickness was very grateful to those present and expressed her thanks for the generous help and their many acts of kindness, shown them during her daughter's illness.

The next meeting will be held with Mrs. Ed. Henry of Dixon, at which time Mothers' Day will be observed with an appropriate program.

TEN CENTS PER LINE FOR CARD OF THANKS.

Evidently there are some who do not understand that Card of Thanks run in a newspaper is purely a personal matter and not news, and consequently something for which a charge is made in all papers. Seventy-five cents is the minimum price in the Telegraph, and if those wishing a card run would send the money with copy it would save all further annoyance.

How Soldier Dispersed Attacks

"For two years my stomach trouble was very bad, my doctor had to inject morphine on several occasions when I was stricken with these attacks. Since taking 4 bottles of Mayr's Wonderful Remedy I have been entirely well and am serving in the artillery, having been pronounced in perfect health by government physicians." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. At all druggists.—Adv.

Dangerous Varicose Veins Can Be Reduced

W. R. C. Donated Material and Work

The members of the Woman's Relief Corps, Auxiliary to the G. A. R. held their regular meeting at G. A. R. hall Monday afternoon, with a very good attendance of members, including several comrades.

Usual routine of business and balloting on candidates for membership was taken care of. Announcement was made for help for the Maywood Hospital War Fund, and the proceeds from the regular Sunshine Fund, was donated, all members responding, bringing the amount to five dollars. Also a need of supplies for our soldier boys in this hospital was reported.

PERIOD FURNITURE Mission

The latest period type of furniture, which may be identified from all others, is the mission type, that suggested by work found in the old Spanish missions of the southwest. Straight, austere lines characterize it almost entirely. It looks heavy and clumsy, although efforts have been made to lighten it. Furned oak is used principally. Similar work in England, Austria and Germany go under the names of New Art Craftsman and Arts and Crafts.

One Man Killed in Chicago Union War

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Chicago, April 29.—Samuel Bills, business agent for an ice cream driver's union, was shot to death, another man was probably fatally wounded and seven others shot seriously in a mysterious affray in an electrical workers' union hall last night.

The body was picked up on the sidewalk outside the hall by police who took the hall dark and deserted. Pistols and overturned furniture were found on the floor.

A few hours previously Bills had ordered a strike of his union, effective Thursday. George Dierdorf, 72, shot through the mouth, told police the shooting began while six electrical workers were appearing before the board of their union to explain infractions of regulations. Several hundred had attended the meeting, union members said.

Wounded were found only after a checkup of hospitals and doctors' offices.

Police Called When Crowd Jammed Hall at Stopa Residence

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Chicago, April 29.—Police last night were called to drive away curious thousands impatient to stare at the coffin of Wanda Stopa, immigrant girl who became Chicago's youngest woman attorney and who took poison in a Detroit hotel after slaying Henry Manning, caretaker of the home of V. Kenley Smith, with whom she was infatuated.

Ten abreast, the throng was packed in a line two blocks long, surging up to the third floor apartment where the casket rested. The family asked police help in stopping the procession. Denied a church funeral service, the obsequies of the girl who sought "intellectual freedom" will be held at her mother's home. A church service will be held May 2, the 24th birthday of the girl, the family planned.

YOU'LL GET IT LATER.

Young men frequently get discouraged because they are not making more money. They forget that a lot of the work they do in youth will not pay them any return until later when they "cash in on" experience.

Take the case of O. Henry. He wrote for years without being able to sell a single story. At the time, it probably seemed to him that in writing he was doing work without getting paid for it. But gradually O. Henry became a master craftsman. Then he began to collect pay for his years of toil, at a rate as high as a dollar a word.

During all those unremunerative years he was really building up an invisible fortune that later turned into actuality.

Keep this thought in mind—that you will not be paid until later for a lot of the work you do now.

The successful doctor and dentist may seem to have very large incomes. But part of this pay for the years when, educating themselves and later building up a practice, they got little or no pay at all.

The skilled worker is getting pay, not only for his present efforts, but also for his apprentice days.

Success is a lot like the harvest that comes after a long, laborious and discouraging period of coaxing the crop along. The farmer is by nature a sound thinker. When he harvests in a few weeks, he doesn't think that his whole year's income is from the work of those few weeks.

The whole principle is obvious. And it works backwards, too. Life is a garden. And, as some farmers neglect their fields and let the weeds run riot, so also are millions of young and middle-aged men growing a crop of failure.

Success, even on a moderate scale, does not begin to come to many people before the age of 40. Then or later they collect back pay—high or low, depending on past effort or negligence.

Are you growing weeds or wheat?

KISSES

The safest time to kiss is midnight. The most dangerous time is early in the morning, germs having accumulated during the night. As the hours roll by, germs are gradually eliminated from their favorite nest—mouth and lips. Even at four in the afternoon, kissing still is risky.

This important information is supplied by Dr. Donald B. Armstrong, of Metropolitan Life Insurance Co.

A conference of physicians recently classified kissing as an "extra hazardous occupation." Most people believe that the prize is worth the peril.

THE FOUR-HOUR WORK DAY.

Time's coming when nobody will work more than four hours a day, Arthur B. Jones predicts at a "human engineering conference." Pause before calling him a visionary dreamer.

A four-hour work day could go into effect tomorrow, if people would be satisfied with a lower standard of living—not poverty, but living more simply and using fewer articles, especially luxuries.

Invention has made it possible for our generation to create in four hours a day as high a standard of living and comfort as several times as many hours of toil half a century ago.

We do in four hours what they did in 12. The only reason we have to work an average of eight hours a day is because we insist on additional conveniences, luxuries and entertainment that were not considered necessary back yonder.

This is the answer to the claim, frequently advanced, that machinery has not freed man of human labor and time, releases people for other work. As we get more and more machinery, better and more efficient system and methods, the population progressively produces and uses more and more articles. In this way, the standard of living advances.

There is even a way by which we could have a universal four-hour work day without lowering our standard of living. How? By solving the problem of distribution as we have already solved the problem of production.

Between producer and consumer stand millions of go-betweens or middlemen, each taking a slice of the pie as it is passed along. They occasionally are outright parasites. But in the main they are absolutely necessary under the present system. These "handlers" work about as hard as producers, selling and keeping records. And they are as surely victims of the wasteful system of roundabout distribution as the producers.

For, after all, every one is a consumer.

The "best brains" used to go into the professions and arts. Now most of them go into business. They have demonstrated a high type of genius in making production efficient and less wasteful, both as regards time and money.

But this mania for economy ends when a commodity is produced. As soon as it starts to market, economy is ignored and profits are piled on profits to the absolute limit that the consumer can pay.

This situation will continue as long as man insists on the system of profit. Possibly a really civilized future will do away with profits and revert to fair and even barter, with everybody producing and the products of their labor being exchanged 50-50.

DAYLIGHT SAVING.

Chicago, New York and various cities in Eastern states will be enjoying "daylight saving" soon. Golfers, fishermen, motorists, gardeners and others find it pleasant. Doubtless the use of "golfers" in this connection is one of the sources of the stern opposition to the plan in many places, even though golf is no longer a private club pastime as the increase in the number of public courses is proof. Many persons looked upon the adding of an extra hour of daylight as merely a scheme of the golf enthusiasts but they overlooked the opportunity it gave for an hour or two of fishing, or for baseball after supper, or gardening, or to see the country-side by day from a motor car. And the opposition of the farmers—they wallowed the plan as they have no other movement in recent years! The would-be daylight savers in this locality have been much subdued of late years. Daylight saving would be more popular if it were only adopted universally.—Rockford Register-Gazette.

GUARDS.

A doctor, discussing the 40,000 Red Cross nurses in America, says: "They hold the front line trenches against disease." Nurses and physicians are the real "standing army." They guard the public against a danger far more formidable than military invasion. Bacteria, plant life couss of toadstools, are our greatest enemies. We are so busy killing each other when we're not recuperating for another fight, and so engrossed in legitimate stealing (trying to get something for nothing or for less than we offer in exchange) that we have little time for the greatest enemy, disease. Proving that we're still in the savage state.

When a man doesn't care what he says nobody else does.

"Hello there, everybody!" he cried

"Let's go to see the fisherman who found the funny bottle," said Nick. "Doesn't he live in Once-Upon-A-Time Land?" "Right-o!" said Mister Muggs. So they all climbed into the little car and away they went over seven times seven frog-ponds and seven times seven minnow brooks until at last they came to a great, great big ocean. And there was the fisherman's cottage. And sitting in a little boat was the fisherman himself, trying to catch a herring for his dinner. When he saw that he had company, he rowed his little boat to shore. "We came to see your queer bottle!" said Nick. "What queer bottle?" asked the fisherman in surprise. "The one you fished out of the water one time," said Nick. "It had a bad giant in it, and when you took the cork out he came out, too, like smoke. That's what the story said." "By the great horn spoon!" cried the fisherman. "So it did! Only it all happened so long ago I had forgotten about it. I only got that bad fellow back in the bottle by fooling him. I put the bottle away in a cupboard and I've kept it ever since. I plumb forgot I had it!" The fisherman hauled it down, but in doing so the stopper fell out and as quick as a flash a thin stream of smoke started to come out. It soon grew to enormous size, floating up to the ceiling, and a giant appeared. "Hello, there, everybody!" he cried. "Where am I? I must have been asleep!" "You have," said the fisherman. "You've been asleep for years!"

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

Boast not thyself of tomorrow; for thou knowest not what a day may bring forth.—Prov. 27:1.

Who knows whether the gods will add tomorrow to the present hour?—Horace.

THE NUT CRACKER

The Yankees got away to a flying start all right, like a blood-sweating hippo weighted down with skyscrapers.

In Detroit caddies are put through an intelligent test. . . . Fortunately, no one as yet has suggested a similar policy for the players.

Belgium is said to have had 164 strikes last year and Walter Johnson wasn't within 300 miles of the place.

Babe Ruth made his first home run the other day and is now only 74 away from the record he wants to set.

A big league manager must be a good student of human nature, even if he doesn't much chance to practice the gift.

We are just beginning to realize what the critics meant when they said Old Hi Johnson, as a presidential candidate, would take a lot of beating.

If the Marines ever decide to hold a golf championship the posters of course, would be changed to read, "Join the Marines and Explore the Sand Traps."

Now if Mike McTigue will only come out and confess that his real name is Heine Spiffenberg, or something like that, all will be forgiven.

The athletic Mr. Kipke leaves Michigan with nine letters and the shingle sily at the next desk is hoping he at least has one for her.

Golf is to be introduced in the public high schools, but it would be more of a novelty if they introduced education.

THE PERIL OF NARCOTICS

BY CAPTAIN RICHMOND P. HOBSON

VII.—Education the Remedy

VII.—EDUCATION THE REMEDY.

Final solution of the narcotic addiction problem is the education of all children of all nations as to the evil effects of opium, morphine, cocaine, and heroin on the human system.

When these children control the world, the dope problem will have been solved, and not before.

We cannot expect our school children to learn what is not found in their standard text books. Text books are lacking in subject matter bearing on narcotics.

This is shown by a survey of almost one hundred text books on physiology and hygiene used in the public schools throughout the United States. Of the 18 books widely used in high schools, five contain nothing whatever about narcotics. In the other 13, less than two pages, on an average, are devoted to the subject.

Only eight authors state that opium is a narcotic drug; only nine that its continued use results in an almost unbreakable habit; only six that certain "patent medicines" contain opium; only four that laudanum is opium dissolved in alcohol; and only four that paregoric is a dilute solution of opium.

Only five authors say that opium makes physical wrecks; only four that it affects the mind; only four that it destroys morality; and only one that its use calls for increasing doses.

Although heroin is now the leading and the most dangerous drug of addiction, only one author ventures to mention it.

We need to preach the gospel of narcotic abstinence from the pulpit, to flash it on the screen, to enact it on the stage, to proclaim it from the public platform, to depict it in the press, and, above all, to teach it in our schools.

The school is the only place where immunity will be developed in the very fiber of the people. It is the only institution that reaches every child in the United States, and it is the only place where the child lives for five hours each day, for five days each week, and for 32 weeks each year.

The warp and woof of human life is made in the schools; ideals are born there.

Naturally the children are now the objective for both sides.

The International Narcotic Education Association, of which I have the honor to be president, has a definite plan for combating narcotic addiction by means of the greatest power known to civilization—the power of education.

TWO HOMERS MADE BY RUTH AS YANKS WIN 8th STRAIGHT

Bambino Helps Yankees
Tounce Athletics
Monday.

By Associated Press Licensed Wire
Hope springing in the breast of every baseball fan attracted to a Yankee combat that "the Babe will hit one" was fulfilled beyond expectations for 10,000 at Philadelphia yesterday when Ruth hit two home runs, took the major league lead in that department and equaled his figures for the same date in 1921, the year he established the record of 59 in one season.

The homers, his fourth and fifth of the year, were made in consecutive innings. The world's champions came from behind to beat Philadelphia 11-4 and registered their eighth straight victory.

Detroit retained first place in the American League by defeating Chicago 7-2. Stoner registered his third win of the season. Robertson who once pitched a no hit, no run game against the Tigers was driven from the box.

Pinch hitter Evans drove in the run in the ninth that gave St. Louis a 4-3 victory over Cleveland.

Washington and Boston played a 2-2 tie when a pitchers' battle between Marberry and Ferguson was stopped by darkness after seven innings.

Bohne's two base hits in the 8th and 10th tied and then won for Cincinnati over St. Louis in the National League 5-4. Sheehan scored his third victory as a relief pitcher. Hornsby made 4 hits.

Barnes Boys' Field Day
The Barnes boys had a big day. Jess held Brooklyn to three hits and won for Boston 8-0. Young Virgil won his second victory of the year for McGraw 4-2 over Philadelphia.

Pittsburgh pounced upon an opportunity presented by Adams' error and defeated Chicago 7-4. Hartnett, Traynor and Wright made homers during the game.

Maurice Archdeacon, speedy outfielder of the Chicago White Sox who has been out of the lineup all season, returned to the game in centerfield. "Sparky" Adams had an off day for the Cubs. The little shortstop had three errors, one of which would have retired the Pirates, instead paved the way for the Cubs' downfall. This misplay was followed by a single and a triple which was enough for Pittsburgh to win.

Manager Bancroft's star fielding, coupled with that of Tierney and the holding of the Dodgers to three hits was largely responsible for the 8 to 0 shutout of Boston over the Dodgers. Bancroft scored two runs, made two hits and accepted four chances, figured in two double plays with Tierney as pivot man and Miennies on the end of the line, while Tierney scored twice and poled a double and triple in addition to handling 12 fielding chances without a slip.

HEALTHOGRAMS

Last year an even 800 persons died in Illinois from diphtheria. This was an average of 15 per week. Most of the victims were children.

Last year nearly 11,000 persons in Illinois were sick with diphtheria. This was an average of 30 per day, over 200 per week. Most of the victims were children.

Diphtheria is essentially a children's disease, caused by invisible organisms or germs which belong to the vegetable kingdom. Under favorable conditions these organisms grow and multiply at an incredibly rapid rate in the throat. They excrete poison which enters the blood stream and is carried to all parts of the body. Not infrequently the nerves supplying the heart muscle are attacked.

The poison from diphtheria germs has a specific antidote called antitoxin which in everyday language means antipoison. When given early enough and in sufficient dosage, antitoxin will completely counteract the poison of diphtheria organisms. Victims of diphtheria invariably recover quickly when sufficient antitoxin is given on the first day after infection takes place.

Whenever an individual has diphtheria and recovers his blood thereafter contains antitoxin in it. Diphtheria poison cannot injure the tissues if antitoxin is present any more than is present any more than ordinary garden vegetables can live in a strong solution of salt water. This perhaps explains why a person seldom has diphtheria more than once.

If healthy individuals could get a constant supply of antitoxin in their blood they would never have diphtheria any more than the individual who has antitoxin in his blood because he has had diphtheria. This is just what toxin-antitoxin will do for an individual. Three injections of this material, given one week apart, will after six months render a person constantly immune to diphtheria.

Diphtheria is most prevalent in Illinois during the fall months, especially September and October. It usually takes two or three months for toxin-antitoxin to establish immunity to diphtheria in an individual. For these reasons now is the most practical time of year for parents to give their children the advantage against diphtheria which toxin-antitoxin offers.

Toxin-antitoxin is distributed by the state department of public health free of cost. The only expense involved in making use of this valuable preventive is the fee of a physician for administering it.

Several institutions, such as orphanages, in Illinois, give toxin-antitoxin to every child who is admitted. In places where this practice has been carefully followed for several years diphtheria has disappeared.

Some years the fruit crop is far more voluminous than in others. Some years corn and wheat yield far greater returns than in others. Nobody can predict with certainty which will be the lean or the fat years. The same is true of diphtheria. During some years this disease is far more prevalent than during others but, like corn, it doesn't yield a harvest in barren soil. The state department of public health recommends, therefore, that the diphtheria soil be made barren by the use of toxin-antitoxin.

HOOK, LINE and SINKER—

The touch of the season is plenty of reason why people should ponder and dream. And everyone's wish that they could go fishin' and loaf by the side of a stream.

The bamboo is calling; we'll all soon be falling; our lines will be knotted and strung. Desires everlasting to be out-casting are silenced when fish lines are flung.

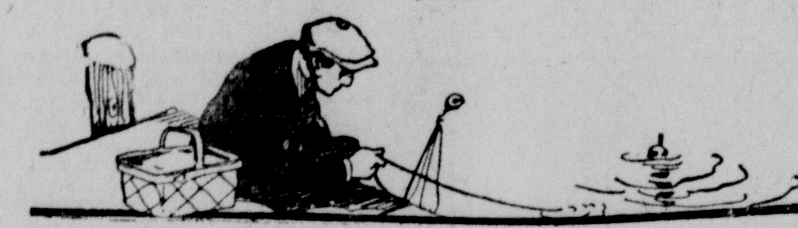

The whirl of a reel makes a fisherman feel that the call of the open and wild is taking him back to the days when the knack of casting was his, as a child.

To sit on a dock or a moss-covered rock and wait for the bobber to beckon is what makes the dream, as you sit by a stream, the real call of nature, I reckon.

Your luck is a chance, sir, but people will answer the call 'cause they can't help but heed. It's sport just to tinker with hook, line and sinker and that's all you actually need.

HIS BROTHER'S WIFE

BEGIN HERE TODAY

The marriage of Dolly and Nigel Bretherton proves an unhappy one. When war is declared, Nigel is called to enlist. He leaves Dolly under the care of Mary Fumival. Nigel is killed and Dolly marries an old sweetheart, Robert Durham. Dolly and Robert sail for America and word comes of the sinking of the ship on which they left England. When Nigel's brother, David, calls to see Nigel's widow, Mary is ashamed to tell him of Dolly's marriage. David mistakes Mary for his brother's wife and asks her to come to live with him and his aunt at Red Grange. An acquaintance of Mary's, named Evans, falls in love with her. Mary writes to tell him that she is leaving for the country.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

If he went round that evening he might be in time to see her.

He changed his office clothes for a blue serge suit; he brushed his hair smartly, and selected his best tie; then he gave an anxious look into the glass before he went out again into the night.

It seemed a long way to Mary's flat, and when he reached it he hardly liked to ring.

He stood outside the shut door for a moment with a wretched sense of nervousness. He wondered if she would be angry; he wondered if she would consider it a liberty on his part to have called at all; he wondered if—With sudden impulse he lifted his hand to the bell.

He heard it go shrilling through the silence. After a moment a light shone through the glass panel of the door; someone drew back the bolt.

It was Mary herself. There was an anxious glint in her eyes, he thought, and although she smiled when she recognized him, her welcome was not quite spontaneous, he told himself.

He explained his visit stammering. "I wanted to see you again. I am sorry you are leaving. I hope it is not really goodbye."

She had not asked him in, and the light of the narrow hall showed him that everything was stripped and bare. The pictures and furniture had all gone; a couple of large boxes stood one on the other against a wall; a big packing-case was in the act of being corded.

Mary looked round nervously as if wondering what he thought of it all. "The place is all dismantled," she said hesitatingly. "But if you will come in for a moment—"

He accepted eagerly. She shut the door, and led the way into the dining-room.

Here also everything had gone but a small table and a couple of chairs. A small fire was burning, but the room looked deserted and cheerless. The table was strewn with papers. Mary was torn into pieces, and some of the fragments had fallen to the floor as if a draught had caught and whirled them down.

"Please sit down," said Mary. Her voice was nervous. She remained standing near the fire, holding her hands to the blaze, and now young Evans saw that the slim third finger of her left hand was barred with a wedding-ring.

At a moment he stared at it with blank eyes. He was sure she had not been wearing it when they had met before; his heart began to beat with a sort of slow disappointment. Almost as if she could feel his gaze, Mary half turned and looked toward him.

She moved her hand quickly into the shade of the folds of her black frock.

"It is kind of you to come," she said. "I did not like to ask you, but I am glad to be able to thank you for all you did for me the other night."

"I did nothing. I am sorry you are going away. Is it very far?"

"Yes—down in the country."

The reply was evasive. He realized that she did not mean him to know her destination; he began stammering to put his wish into words.

"I wanted to ask if—whether you would mind if I—if you would let me write you sometimes? I won't bother you much, but if I might write sometimes—"

There was a little silence. Mary was looking away from him now, and down into the heart of the fire.

When she spoke her voice was kind but rather cold.

"I am afraid I must say no. It isn't that I—I don't want you to. I am afraid you must think me horribly unkind and ungrateful, but—oh, I don't think you must."

He rose from his chair and moved across to where she was standing; his young face looked very earnest.

"I wouldn't worry you. I'd write very seldom; but—I shall be so sorry if—if we never meet again."

The color was fluttering in her cheeks; the hand half hidden in the fold of her black frock twitched a little.

"I BEG YOUR PARDON FOR HAVING WORRIED YOU."

"You don't understand," she broke out helplessly. "It's not that I don't want to see you again, but—but I want to leave all my old life behind—to start afresh. I—I haven't been so very happy here that I wish to be reminded of it all," she added, with a catch in her voice.

He took her hand—his own daring astonished him. Such a small nervous hand it was. He felt all at once as if he wanted to help her, to be kind to her, to interpose his broad young shoulders between her and the world's buffeting.

"I know it must seem awful presumption," he said rather unsteadily. "But"—he stopped, and rushed on again—"I've never taken a fancy to anyone before—(ill I met you, and—"

She lifted her head, and he saw that there were tears in her eyes, though she smiled.

"Why, I'm years older than you," she said tremulously. "You're only a boy! It's very kind of you. Please don't think I'm not grateful; but it's quite, quite impossible."

"You mean that I'm not the sort of fellow you could ever give a thought to—that—"

There was something so boyish in his appeal, her heart softened toward him.

"It's not that, but—"

"I loved a man dearly once, and I can never care for anyone else."

He let her hand go—very gently. "And he is—dead?" he asked.

"Yes."

There was a little silence. The fire leaped and crackled in the grate, casting weird shadows over the bars room. Then young Evans moved back to the table without speaking, and took up his hat.

"I beg your pardon for having worried you," he said; and his voice sounded older and more manly. "Please forgive me."

He held out his hand.

"What is there to forgive?" she asked him, smiling. "You have been so kind to me."

He walked into the hall, and she followed him. The front door stood wide; the little maid was helping a man drag one of the big boxes out to a waiting car; it looked very heavy and cumbersome.

Young Evans went forward. "Let me lend a hand," he said cheerily.

The little maid stood aside, red-faced and blushing. Young Evans raised one end of the big trunk in his strong arms.

"Ready?" he asked.

Together they carried it out into the darkness, and down to the van. As they shoved it into the back of the car, the light from a lamp fell on the label attached to the handle.

Young Evans looked at it, and his heart leapt.

This would tell him her address. He bent closer to it eagerly, and then a little puzzled frown bent his straight brows, for the address on the label read: "Mrs. Nigel Bretherton, The Red Grange, Selmont, —shire."

CHAPTER XXI

Nigel's Home

MISS VARNEY straightened out an imaginary crease in the white bedspread, and stepped back a pace to look round the room with well-satisfied eyes.

"If she doesn't like this"—she appealed to David, who stood in the doorway watching her amusedly—"I am afraid she will be very difficult to please."

"It looks very nice," he admitted, with mannish indifference. "They had no room like this at the flat, at any rate."

Miss Varney sighed.

"Poor Nigel! And he loved his home and the country so much."

A little cloud crossed her gentle face. For a moment she lost herself in retrospection.

Now that he was dead and gone she blamed herself that she had not cared more for her younger nephew. David had always been her favorite. She wondered now if perhaps Nigel had guessed as much.

It seemed impossible that she would never see him again, or hear his teasing voice. Tears filled her eyes, and splashed on to the white lace of her black bodice.

David moved towards her, and laid a hand on her arm.

"Don't cry," he said. "Perhaps it's all for the best—and he went out as he would have wished."

Miss Varney stifled a sob.

She wiped her tears resolutely away, and tried to smile.

"I'm an old silly, I know. Forgive me, David. And now we must hurry, or the child will be here before we are ready. Tell me again what she is like, and if you think she really and truly cared for Nigel."

"I am quite sure she did," Bretherton answered quickly. "I should say she cared for him tremendously; she looked broken-hearted when I first saw her. We shall have to be very kind to her, Aunt Florence. She will be able to do with all the petting and coddling you can give her."

"Poor child, she is more than welcome," Miss Varney stood on tip-toe, and dropped a kiss on David's chin. "I think it's so good of you to have her here. She ought to be very grateful."

She went away hurriedly, leaving David standing in the doorway of the room that had been his brother's.

Miss Varney had certainly done her utmost for the comfort of her guest. There were flowers on the mantelpiece and dressing-table, books on a low shelf, a cushioned chair and a writing-table, and a small cheery fire burning in the grate, for the summer seemed to have gone and the afternoon was chilly.

What would she think of it? he wondered, a little curiously. She had only been to the Red Grange once, so he had told him.

Home of Chicago Dry Crusader is Bombed

Chicago, April 28.—The home of Rev. E. L. Williams, dry crusader, vice foe, and official of the Better Government Association, was bombed today. No one was injured but the front of the residence was blown out. Mr. Williams regarded the bombing as a result of his activities against bootleggers, climaxed in federal court Wednesday when he was reprimanded by Commissioner Reiter for methods of entrapment used to gain evidence of liquor law violations. Last night he preached on the crime waves and particularly assailed the evils of bootlegging.

"This will not deter me from fighting for better government," Rev. Williams said.

THIS WOMAN'S MARVELLOUS RECOVERY

All Due to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Truman, Minn.—"I was badly run-down and had pains in my side and back; sometimes I couldn't hardly move around in bed. My husband got me Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and after taking it I was so much better I could do all my work again. I do my housework, have a garden, raise chickens, and in harvest time I worked in the field and helped pick corn. Sometimes I do chores and milk. I took the Vegetable Compound before and after my four-months-old baby was born, and it has always helped me wonderfully. I believe there is no better medicine made for women, and I hope every woman will give it a fair trial."

—Mrs. AUGUST R. WIEDERHOF, R. No. 2, Box 84, Truman, Minnesota.

Women suffering from troubles so common to their sex should give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial.

The Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has relieved women of such troubles for the past fifty years. For sale by druggists everywhere.

CORN GROWERS OF STATE ARE ASKED TO HELP IN FIGHT

Every Agency of State to Combine to Beat Corn Borer.

Urbana—Farmers in every county in Illinois have been asked to maintain a careful watch for the corn borer, the "boll weevil" of the corn belt, by W. P. Flint, entomologist of the State Natural History Survey. Mr. Flint has asked that they send him any insect which "looks suspicious," in order that centers of infestation may be discovered early and proper preventative measures taken.

"The borer," Mr. Flint said, "may be expected in this state within the next few years." Accompanied by J. C. Nackleman, crop extension specialist of the college of agriculture, University of Illinois, Mr. Flint recently attended a conference and meeting of state and federal officials, held at Toledo to further a cleanup drive against the insect.

The meeting, which was held in the region of what is said to be the worst borer infestation in the corn belt, was in charge of authorities from the federal department of agriculture and the Ohio State University and was designed chiefly to show workers from other corn belt states the necessary steps in a cleanup drive against the pest.

"The closest known infestation of the borer is now in Ohio about 200 miles from the eastern border of Illinois," Mr. Flint said. "This is less than a day's ride in an automobile from the Illinois line."

Borer Spreads Rapidly
"Some idea of the rapidity with which the borer spreads can be gained from the fact that it first appeared in northeastern Ohio in 1921 and at that time the best trained federal scouts could find only one or two borers in a day's scouting. Last year, after but two breeding seasons from the time the insect was first found, it was estimated that one per cent of the corn in the infested townships in 11 counties of northeastern Ohio was damaged, with the damage in some fields running as high as 10 to 17 per cent of the corn plants."

"The big problem for Illinois in keeping down the danger of borer injury will be the burning of corn stalks in the fields in the spring and the cleaning up and burning of corn refuse around barns and field lots, in order to destroy the hibernating places of the pest."

"Some hope is expressed that insect enemies, or parasites of the borer, which have been brought over from Europe, may be a help in keeping the pest in check, especially if they can be established before the borer reaches the state. Several thousand of these parasites have been released in different parts of Illinois, but it is not

ABE MARTIN

TELEPHONE FROM JOHN ALDEN PRESCOTT TO LESLIE PRESCOTT.

I want to speak to Mrs. Prescott. This is she, Jack.
Oh, I didn't recognize your voice.
I have just had a telephone message from Syd, and he says he's coming up very soon, and while he will stay at the Country Club he will expect you to cheer up his convalescence.

Great Scott, Jack, everything comes at once. I've had a telegram from your mother saying she'll visit us tomorrow, and a wireless from my mother asking us to be in New York on Friday to meet them, as they dock on that day. Now what are we going to do?

It is rather crowding the mourners, isn't it? How long do you think your mother will want you to stay in New York?

Three or four days. I know they'll be anxious to get home as Alice is going to be married very soon.

Well, we can easily put off old Syd for that length of time, but mother won't be so easy. I fancy. She always expects that, like royalty, her suggestions must always be treated as commands. Suppose you go, my dear, to see your mother and let me stay home. I really need to do that anyway, because I was so long with Syd that my business is in rather a mix up.
Oh, I hate to do that, dear.

I think it would be a good thing for you, and if I were you I wouldn't even take little Jack with me. He'll be great company for mother, and she'd imagine you were doing it exactly for her sake. I am quite sure you would like to go to New York and show that flapper sister of yours that you are still young and more beautiful than she.

You needn't feel called upon to compliment me, dear, at the expense of my sister. But I would like to go to New York, and if you think it would be all right to leave you and little Jack home alone I think I'll do it. Of course Sarah is better able to take care of the baby than I am. She knows more about it, and I am quite sure she loves him quite as much as I do, so far as she is concerned your mother will think I am perfectly heartless, do you?

Probably, but you needn't care for that. If I think it's all right, and you think it's all right, we're the only ones to be consulted.

Jack, you're a dear.
I'm glad you think so, Leslie, but I'm very far from being one most of the time. I'm afraid I wasn't very kind to you this morning.

I've forgotten all that.
I guess the good God put something into the souls of women that he left out of those of men, dear—something that makes them very forgiving and very forgetful of all our little meanness. I'm coming home very soon now, and I hope dinner will be ready when I get there, for I haven't had any luncheon.

Then I'll say good-bye and see that everything is ready.

Reconciliation Seen in Sanderson Fiasco

New York, April 23.—Friends of Nina Wilcox Putnam, authoress, are wondering whether the declaration of her husband, Robert J. Sanderson, clearing her of alienation of affection charges with which her name was linked last winter, indicates an approaching reconciliation.

The charges became public after a divorce decree awarded Mrs. Sanderson in Providence, was voided on the grounds of illegality. Mrs. Ellsworth Bassett, Madison, Conn., whose husband was chauffeur-secretary to the novelist, charged that he and Mrs. Sanderson had entered into a mutual divorce pact.

Mrs. Sanderson denied the charges. It was reported Bassett's efforts at reconciliation with his wife were not successful. He resigned from the writer's employ.

The "Y" as I see it, is the one institution in Dixon that is making a business of directing the thoughts of the boys and young men along channels that are of both immediate and ultimate good. The association with older men at banquets and the opportunity to hear speakers that are worth while, is in itself a great lasting value to the boys that are of the ultra-impressionable age.

GEORGE BOYNTON.

In my opinion the Hi-Y Club is one of the most instructive and educational enterprises for young men ever conducted in Dixon.

H. C. WARNER.

I believe the Toastmaster's Club to be one of the finest organizations sponsored by the Y. M. C. A. Its members not only receive valuable parliamentary practice, but enjoy the association of real friends. There has always existed in the club a wonderful feeling of friendship, each member working to help his fellow members. There are no dull meetings in the Toastmaster's Club.

H. G. BYERS.

I have found the exercises and the spirited contests of the games we play, not only the proper method for retaining suppleness but also providing the relaxation and recreation of mind and muscle which improves the general bodily condition and enables one to do more and better work.
